Yes, there are several, only plated a few course of the property of the property of the property of the property of the few course, or property to the few course, or property to the few plants have been erected. One of the works which I visited was the final relationship to the plate concern is being built of chicago. When a Weishman adunts that an American tine-plant plant is "the finest has has ever seen," it is about time for the cauting demagogues who are paid for faisifying the facts about a great American industry to cease their ranting and enter upon some more fertile ideals for the accretise of their peculiar talents. However, this is by no means the most interesting part of the interview. It is when Mr. ROGERS comes to the prospects of the coming election that the Free-trade "reformer" should take especial notice:

disguising his belief, he is not affaid to say so. The question of Free-traile or Protection in America is essentially a workingman's question, just as this foreign tin plate manufacturer says it is, and if American labovers wish to put Free-traile at the helm and lower wages into their own pockets there is not the shadow of doubt that they can do so.

THE Rochester Herald has lately been devoting much pains and time to exposing" some of the fallacies of Mr. McKinley's Tariff

How Foreigness Northwest. To his Fay the Duty declaration that Protection forces the tection forces the pay the duty imposed for the privilege of marketing his goods here, it takes positive exception. It says:

Let us expose McKiniey's attempt to decevie with a single simple but effective illustration. In the fiscal year 1891 the importations of manufactures of would to importations of manufactures of would to frozen exporters received for them—the lowest price for the goods in the foreign exporters received for them—the lowest price for the goods in the foreign woolen goods amounted to $83.201.852, or about 30 per cent. of the foreign value. Does any one outside of an issane asytum suppose that the manufacturer took $11 cooks in the foreign market?

When the foreign importer places per cent. Irom the selling price of his cools in order to place them in the cools in order to place them to the cools in our narkets which he has to sell here for the same price as similar domestic goods, he must always deluter from the American selling price all expenses of getting his goods into this country. If the foreign and domestic prices are the same, he must reduce his original selling price to the extent of the duties collected on this side plus the expense of transportation. If the difference between the foreign and homestic prices is greater than he duties, he is then enabled to advance, the original price of his goods. If the difference between the domestic prices accordingly. All of this is aclear as ambor, and can be congressed as the construction of the difference between the domestic and foreign prices accordingly. All of this is aclear as ambor, and can be congressed as the construction of the difference hereign the difference of prices accordingly. All of this is aclear as ambor, and can be congressed as the construction of the muster of understandom, but us take the illustration given by The Heerdd.

Suppose there were no duties on the manufactures of wooders coming into

Suppose there were no duties on the manufactures of wordens coming into this country, what was there to present the foreign manufacturers in 180 from selling their goods for $71,307,801, or the original price plus the duties collected.Instead of for $43,238,007. This they would have done, and the $83,261,452 that went into the United States Treasury would have gone into the pockets of the foreign exporters.
